Q "THE FLAMING FOREST" ✓

Don attaches a rope to a tree on a bank overhanging the track down which the runaway freight bearing Ruth is speeding. He swings out and grabs Ruth just before the car jumps the track, crashing into the valley below.

Don is accosted by Cluxton's men. Big fight. Don knocks Cluxton into the water from high cliff. He sees Cluxton can't swim and jumps in to save him. Nearly drowned by the frightened, cowardly Cluxton, Don knocks him on the head. The scene is witnessed by Vance, who accuses Don of killing Cluxton.

Forest fire—giant trees burning; men fighting valiantly; airman patrol; horses dashing through flames, smoke and falling trees!

Ruth's house catches on fire. Don, locked in closet in house, breaks way out. He does not know Ruth is in the house. She climbs through flaming window onto roof and jumps to tall tree. The flames are licking at its base.
